Her acting of the first scene at Belmont was instinct with bumor and charm. The latter quality she carried over to Bassanio's choice of the caskets, although in her attitude toward her lover there was less of the ardent affec-tion and the castetic hardens that tion and the ecstatic happiness than might have been expected.

The trial scene she read with intel-ligence of course, and if there was a lack of warmth in this episode it could lack of warmth in this episode it could easily be attributed to her first appearance in the part. She will certainly gain in depth and certainty as she grows familiar with the action of the role. As it was, she made a brilliant beginning in this new field. Her readings throughout were a delight to the ear, with only the absence of sufficient variety to detract from their beauty. But this will come with time.

on May 19 and 20.

The annual sale of seats and boxes for the Lambs Gambol, which will be presented at the Metropolitan Opera House on May 19 and 20, was held yesterday afternoon at the Hudson Theatre. A total of $8,170 over and above the box office prices was realized. William Courtleigh, Shepherd of the club, presided. Among the auctioneers were Frank Timney, Donald Brian, Barney Bernard, Jack Hazzard, Julius Tannen, Andrew Mack, Tom Wise, Hal Forde and Percy G. Williams.

In accordance with a long established custom, Col. James Elverson of Philadelphia allowed no one to outbid him in the selection of the first box which be bought at a premium of $900, and thereafter the box premiums ranged down to $250 each. Supreme in Endurance 24th hr Hudson Super-Six 71m

> On May 1st and 2nd, a Hudson Super-Six, driven by Ralph Mulford, covered 1819 miles in 24 hours over the Sheepshead Bay Speedway. ¶ No other machine, whether operated in the air, on land or on water, has ever approached the sustained speed and endurance of the Hudson Super-Six in this test. The record was made by a Hudson Super-Six Stock Chassis under American Automobile Association supervision. In the light of this performance every effort of every other stock car fades into insignificance.

¶ Never before has a motor been put through such a gruelling grind. This feat proves the enduring qualities and absolute dependability of the Hudson Super-Six. At no time did the marvel-ous engine develop trouble of any sort. ¶ Note the perfect regularity of its running 751924 miles an hour-hour after hour, and you will be convinced of its absolute freedom from engine troubles, its great endurance and wonderful strength. This greatest of all endurance tests proves that the Hudson Super-Six is the champion long distance stock car of the world.

¶ Speed is an important factor in a motor car because it indicates power, and although you may never require the excessive speed of a Hudson Super-Six it is satisfying to know that you have such power at your com-mand, particularly for hill climbing. The great reserve of horsepower for the weight, combined with the marvelous flexibility of the Hudson Super-Six makes it quieter, smoother and easier running over the long, hard route or in the crowded traffic of the city than any other car. I Next to the wonderful endurance record, the most remarkable point was the low gasolene consumption. The Hudson Super-Six averaged approximately 13 miles to the gallon during the strenuous 24-hour grind.

The Hudson Super-Six represents the biggest value in proved automobile worth that money can purchase:
